HAIR LASER THERAPY INFORMED CONSENT

NAME: _____ PT# _____

Please read this form entirely. This form contains information to assist you in making a decision to have hair laser removal. Initial each paragraph to acknowledge understanding. There are risks and complications that may result from this therapy; they are rare, but do exist and you must be aware of them.

This procedure is not painless. The sensation has been described as warm and sharp. Local anesthesia may be used for more invasive laser treatments as deemed necessary. Allergic reaction to anesthesia or topical numbing cream is possible. Initial _____ Scarring is possible. Normal laser treatments do not result in scarring, but it is possible. All efforts are made to reduce or eliminate the potential for scarring. Lightening or darkening in the color of the skin may also occur, but is not expected. If it occurs, it normally resolves with time. Additional treatments may be needed to treat discoloration or scarring. Initial _____

Minor bleeding may occur, but is very unusual. Deep injury is extremely unlikely because the laser only penetrates a few millimeters. Infections are rare but may also occur in isolated circumstances. Herpes Simplex Virus outbreaks can occur following laser treatment around the mouth. Prescription medication can be used to suppress the virus. According to medical literature, lasers do not contribute to carcinogenic reactions in living human tissue in any known way. Initial _____

You will need multiple treatments to achieve the desired results due to hair and skin growth cycles. You should expect improvement in the treated area, but flawless skin may not be the result. Responses vary from person to person. While improvement may be expected, no results may occur for reasons beyond the practitioner's control. Initial _____
After laser treatment, redness, scabbing, itching, blistering, photosensitivity, and a burning sensation may occur within 48 hours post treatment. Initial _____

There is no guarantee as to the exact results of receiving laser therapy. It represents one of the most advanced technologies available. You should be aware that the exact effect will vary from person to person. Initial _____

Laser energy can produce burns. Adjacent structures, including eyes, may be injured or permanently damaged by the laser beam. Burns are rare, yet represent the effect of heat produced within the tissue by laser energy. Initial _____
